

Totally True Tales

with Brigid Murphy

UNLOCK YOUR CREATIVE VOICE THROUGH AUTOBIOGRAPHICAL WRITING

“Let us not take it for granted that life exists more fully in what is commonly thought big than what is commonly thought small.” -Virginia Wolff

Weekends at Baker is pleased to offer:

Totally True Tales

with Brigid Murphy

Writing Workshops for Students (Grade 6-8) and Parents

Student Workshops: April 8 & 15, 1:00 – 3:00 p.m. Fee: $185 per student

Parent/Adult Workshops: April 22 & 29, 1:00 – 3:00 p.m. Fee: $185 per student Shared Tale Presentation (both Students and Adults): May 6, 1:00 – 3:00 p.m.

Register Today for Totally True Tales!

The essence of this workshop is to help you unlock your creative voice through autobiographical writing. In some ways the stories are a bi-product of the process. Building a path into your creative minds, and learning to trust and allow your writing to flow freely, without judgement, is the true goal. This technique will serve you no matter what kind of writing or work you are creating: Play, painting, or term paper, it will be unique to you and your experiences.

As a result of participating in this process you will:

- * Connect to your unique creative voice.
- * Learn to write unencumbered by expectation, free of judgement, and self-editing.
- * Build the courage and confidence to share personal stories.
- * Learn to listen and respond to others' work in a positive and supportive manner.
- * Learn techniques for editing and shaping your stories.
- * Learn to present and perform your stories with confidence.

Telling personal stories allows others a chance to know and understand the writer's life, past and present. It is the understanding of the unknown that creates empathy, and connects us in a shared human experience, on our small beautiful blue planet. And all you will need is a comp book, and lots of pens.